WIRELESS PLAYS ON "MAGIC ORGAN."

THUNDER CONTROLLER.
DIALOGUE BLENDED FROM MANY STUDIOS.

In a little room at Saver Hill, the headquarters of the B.B.C., a grave-faced man sits at an organ. As he touches a key here, and another there, the sound that fills the room changes in volume or tone. And all the while he is following the "score" closely. Completely concentrated, he has not a thought for anything else but the task in hand. If you look a little closer you will find it consists of a well-indented table with an upper structure running from one end to the other. The musical score is typewritten manuscript. The keys are switches and dials. The music and the speech are coming from a loud speaker that is fixed to the wall. A telephone enables the grave-faced "player" of the instrument to talk to the beyond with lifting the transmitter. A row of tiny lights convey important signals.

A New Technique.

For what you have strayed into is the control room, and the "organist" is Mr. Lance Sieveking, engaged in producing a wireless play.

Recently "Exiles" which is a play that has been written round the Russian revolution was broadcast, and one of the characters in it is Kerensky. In this play it is intended to exploit practically all the resources of the new technique evolved in this country for the production of radio drama.

It has nothing in common with the stage play; the result, can be likened more correctly to that of a film drama with its fading effects and its "flashbacks" and "close-ups."

The producer does not see any of the actors; he directs simply by sound.

Signalling the Cue.

He is in touch with four or five different studios, and each plays its part in the action when the producer signals the cue. In this way various effects are introduced, so cleverly that the listener can assume the whole scene is taking place at one particular point.

The "spot of thunder," the playing of a mouth-organ, the meaning of a crowd, the playing of national anthems—these and a host of other things come into the dialogue from various parts of the building.

It is all very wonderful. But it demands the greatest skill and judgment.

The slightest mistake, and the play would be spoilt.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST,
SCIENTIST, HONG KONG.

"Adam and fallen man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 11.
The Golden Text was: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works" (II. Tim. 3: 16, 17).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 11, were the following: "For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit do carnally minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be. But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you." (Rom. 8: 5-9).
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Son of the Virgin-mother unfolded the remedy for Adam, or error; and the Apostle Paul explains this warfare between the idea of divine power, which Jesus presented, and mythological material intelligence called energy and opposed to Spirit." (p. 534).

ADVICE FOR INVESTORS.

READERS are reminded that inquiries relating to the share market are answered on page 11 every Tuesday by "Kufan." Letters should be sent to this office, and must be accompanied by writer's name and address, not for publication. Letters should be addressed to "Kufan," care of the Editor.

RUSSIA'S RELATIONS WITH BRITAIN.

CHANGE OF HEART ON PROPAGANDA ISSUE.

LONDON NOTIFIES COLONY OF HOW IT STANDS.

It is notified by the Colonial Secretary's Department for general information that a despatch has been received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies announcing the resumption of full diplomatic relations with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and that by Notes exchanged on the occasion of the resumption of such diplomatic relations, the pledge regarding propaganda contained in Article 16 of the General Treaty between Great Britain and Northern Ireland and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republic, signed at London on August 8, 1924, was confirmed.

The stipulations of Article 16 of the said General Treaty are accordingly binding on the Government of the Colony of Hong Kong.

Article 16 is as follows:—The contracting parties solemnly affirm their desire and intention to live in peace and amity with each other, scrupulously to respect the undoubted right of a State to order its own life within its own jurisdiction in its own way, to refrain and to restrain all persons and organisations under their direct or indirect control, including organisations in receipt of any financial assistance from them, from any act overt or covert liable in any way whatsoever to endanger the tranquillity or prosperity of any part of the territory of the British Empire or the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics or intended to embitter the relations of the British Empire or the Union with their neighbours or any other countries.

TWO-WAY TELEVISION.

REMARKABLE PROGRESS.

Television has been perfected to the point where two-way conversations may be carried on over the telephone with the image of each speaker visible to the other.

Separated by a distance of two miles, newspaper men from New York papers were able to speak to and see each other by means of a new telephone-television system started by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The name of the new instrument is an "Ikonophone."

Each reporter entered a booth and sat facing the Ikonophone. The chamber was lighted with a dim orange light. A spot of blue light peered out at the person, and took his image over telephone wires to another building. On a plate glass beneath the blue light appeared the image of the person at the other end of the line. The telephone instruments were concealed, and the two carried on their conversation in the same manner as if they were in the same room.

About the same time another television service was inaugurated in New York. The Jenkins Television Company of Brooklyn started a daily broadcast, featuring television coupled with the regular evening programme.

Many notable voices and features went over the air on the first night. Among them were Dr. Lee De Forrest, called the "father of Radio," who predicted that television would soon be an every-day feature such as the radio is now.

The Jenkins authorities estimated that there are now 25,000 television sets in use.

Reception of their programme, however, was faulty.

Experts said that the world was still far from the time when any telephone could have a television apparatus attached.

WOMAN'S CORNER.

WILL THERE BE A MARRIAGE REVOLUTION?

[By VERA BRITAIN, Author of "The Future of Monogamy."]

It is no longer fashionable to praise the ideal of lifelong marriage. Monogamy, declare many of our modern thinkers and writers, is an unnatural arrangement imposed on mankind by medieval ecclesiastical authorities, who attached to chastity a disproportionate value which would have been better accredited to more constructive virtues.

During the last century, when it became the keystone of Victorian morality, this type of marriage resembled liberty in one respect only—that some of the worst oppressions of society were committed in its name.

Let it go, say these sex-reformers, along with other unregretted relics of the dreary past, such as chandeliers, crinolines, wagnettes, and fringed antimacassars.

This condemnation would indeed appear to herald the doom of our present matrimonial conventions, were it not for one circumstance which many of the sex-reformers have overlooked. They assume that true monogamy—the happy lifelong partnership of one man and one woman, based on equal and mutual respect—has been proved a failure by centuries of experiment.

The available evidence points, however, to a different conclusion. It suggests that monogamous marriage, like Christianity, has not been weighed in the balance and found wanting, but has been found difficult and has not been tried.

Far from being a feature of the unsatisfactory past, the attainment of true monogamy lies, if anywhere, in the future.

The average Victorian "happy marriage" was more often than not a convenient fiction, based on a double moral standard. It should never have been identified with monogamy, which does not mean—though it has too long been held to mean—an arrangement under which the wife is bound by rigid social restrictions while the husband pursues his own line of conduct.

The increase of freedom and sex-knowledge which followed the war has produced, as one of its chief results, a determination on the part of the war generation and its successors to face the truth about marriage.

These generations are not more licentious than their elders because they are less sanctimonious. In spite of our totally misleading divorce statistics, there are probably more happy monogamous marriages to-day than at any other time in the world's history.

The power to terminate easily an unfortunate union renders more—rather than less—probable an increase in the number of successful partnerships.

Sex equality, again, in so far as it has been achieved, favours the development within marriage of those pleasant mutual companionships which were seldom attainable when the standard of education and intelligence differed widely between husband and wife.

During the last twenty years the social ideal of monogamy has thus come, at least for a few couples, within reach of realisation.

On the other hand there are certain features of modern life, such as the spread of birth-control knowledge, which suggest the ultimate possibility of universal promiscuous relationships free from social penalty. Civilised mankind stands at the parting of the matrimonial ways. Which type of sex union is the future likely to witness?

One thing at least is certain: the modern man and the modern woman are growing ever less susceptible to sexual regimentation. If we cannot be made moral by Act of Parliament we certainly cannot be made monogamous.

Our present laws and conventions, which thrust all but one type of sex union into a kind of moral wilderness, continue in complete disregard of the obstinacy, perversity, intractability, and general contrasuggestiveness of human nature.

Monogamy is not to be enforced by censorship, by the limitation of sex instruction, by restrictions on birth-control teaching, by the perpetuation of the injustices still embodied in the divorce laws, or even by the prohibition of "irregular" and experimental unions. Least of all can it be achieved by the penalisation of the woman worker who desires to combine a career with marriage and motherhood.

It may well happen that in a more enlightened future civilisation there will be many forms of legal marriage in order to suit different varieties of human psychology.

In our present condition of biological childishness our still almost complete enslavement to animal instinct, functional change and physical limitation, there are probably only a limited number of married couples by whom true monogamy is attainable.

The fact, nevertheless, remains that when loyal and lasting friendship, arising from highly individualised selection and constantly cemented by mutual passion, does happen to be embodied in marriage, it constitutes, and will always constitute, one of the highest and rarest achievements of the human spirit.

Such an achievement, however, can have but one permanent basis, which is that of voluntary self-discipline, founded on the mutual love and dignity of equal partners.

Only if, by the alteration of our arbitrary laws and the reform of our inadequate sex-education, we can inculcate a reliance on such self-discipline in the young men and women of the future, shall we succeed in rescuing monogamous marriage from the oblivion which eventually eclipses every outworn institution.

SEQUEL TO MURDER OF COMPRADORE.

DETAILS OF PLOT TO SLAY WAYFOONG OFFICIAL.

MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED BY POLICE.

Two men have been arrested by the Shanghai Settlement police and Chinese authorities in connection with the attempted kidnapping and murder on December 6, 1929, of Mr. Zih Loh-zung, compradore of the Hong Kong & Shanghai Bank.

One of the men, Sz Loong-yong, a chauffeur, was originally arrested by the French police on suspicion of being concerned in a kidnapping last February. Investigation disclosed his part in the murder of Mr. Zih and he was handed over to the Settlement police. If the attempt to kidnap Mr. Zih had been successful, he would have taken the place of Mr. Zih's regular chauffeur and driven the compradore into Chinese territory. He was traced through his traffic record.

The other man, Ko Zien-chin, a loafer, is believed to be one of those directly responsible for the murder. He has been keeping on the move in Chinese territory for some months past and it was only recently that the Chinese authorities learned of his whereabouts. He was caught in Nantao and will be handed over to the Settlement police on a despatch warrant from the Special District Court.

Five others are wanted in connection with the murder. A series of raids carried out by police from the West Hongkew district last week was aimed at capturing these suspects. No further arrests, however, were made.

The Crime Recalled.

Mr. Zih, accompanied by a bodyguard, had stopped his car at the intersection of Cheung and Foo-chow Roads, late on December 6 in order to buy some food for his dogs when he met his death. While the bodyguard was making the purchase two armed men attempted to enter the car, Mr. Zih escaped to the roadway, but was seized and shot down by the two men when he refused to accompany them.

C. P. C. 1380, 1147, and 1389 rushed to the scene of the shooting, and saw the two kidnappers running in the direction of Nanking Road. A running battle followed, the police firing 22 shots at the pair and the kidnappers shooting naphazard at all and sundry. One of the kidnappers escaped, but the other was cornered in the Zoey Sung lodging house at 64 Cheung Road. He threw his pistol away at the entrance to the house.

The constables also entered the house and shot this member of the gang dead.

An alarm turned into Louza Station brought a car load of police and detectives to the spot where Mr. Zih was lying, but there was little they could do. Mr. Zih was taken to the Lester Hospital where an operation was performed for the extraction of the bullets. He died the next day.

Mr. Zih Loh-zung was the son of the late Mr. Zih-kung, who was compradore of the Wayfoong until his death some years ago, when the murdered man took his place. He was a native of Shanghai and had been with the bank for about 20 years.

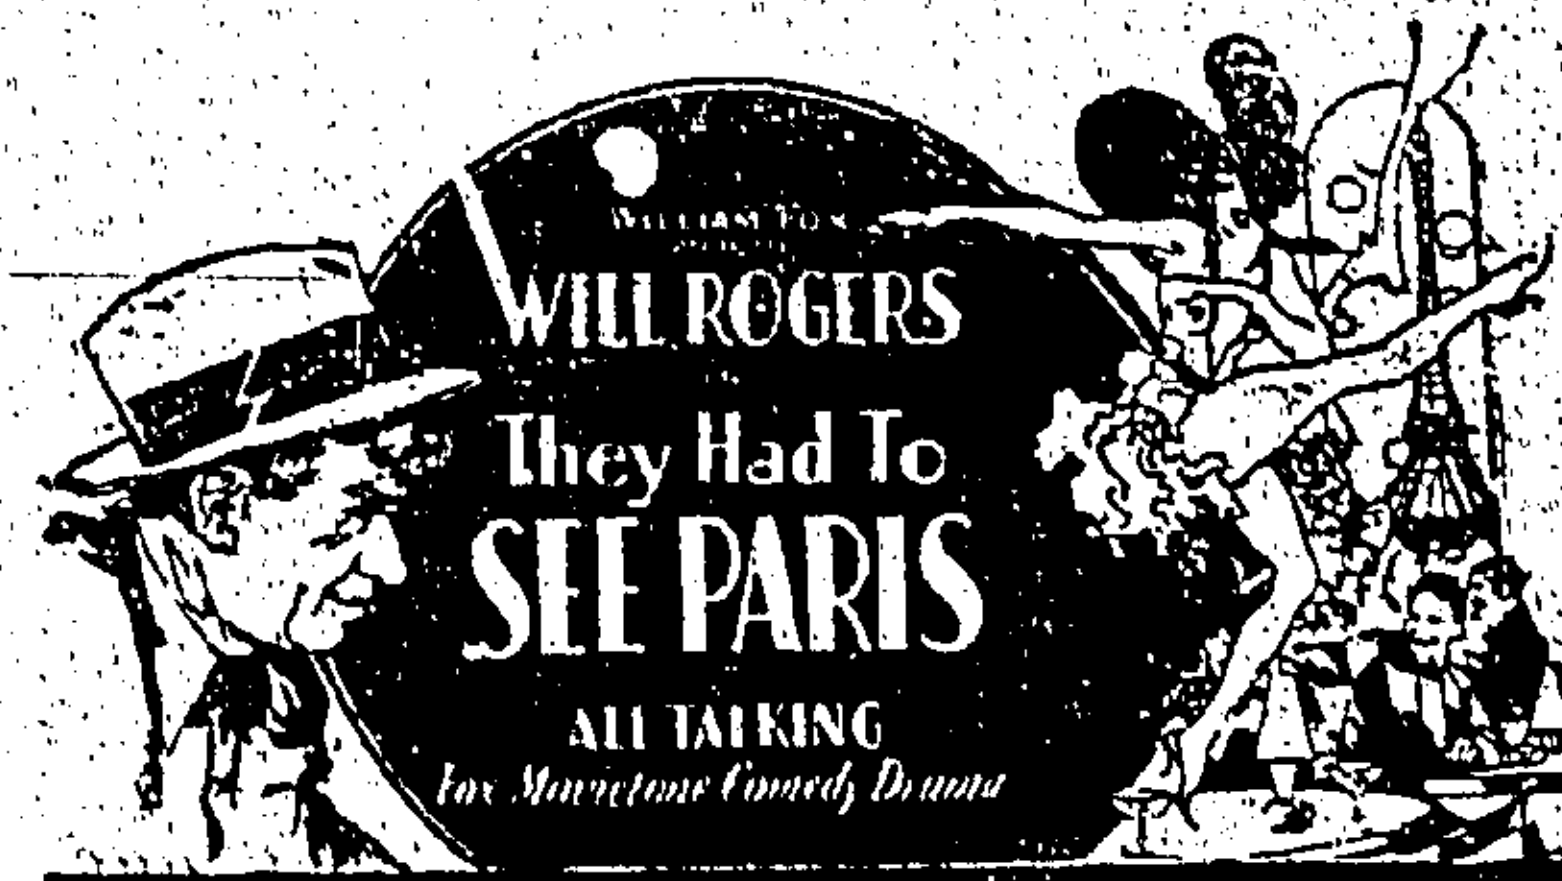

THE SILVER SCREEN.

A BORN COMEDIAN.

Any man who can keep an audience of two thousand people amused for fifteen consecutive minutes by his own unaided efforts is obviously a genius in the art of entertaining. The famous Groucho can do this—so could Will Rogers, working with even fewer "properties" than the celebrated clown. Those who have seen Rogers in his well-known vaudeville act, "spinning ropes and yaris"—in which he kept up a running rapid fire of funny stories and cynical comment while doing amazing tricks with a lariat—will be curious to see how this clever comedian figures on the screen.

The picture now showing at the Queen's Theatre, "They Had To See Paris," has been obviously written round the whimsical personality of the towboy comedian, and it has been written well. The story is fresh, the situations novel, and the dialogue—well, it is real Will Rogers, and that is all that need be said. It is a clever and most amusing picture, one that can be seen twice and enjoyed as much the second time as the first. Irene Rich and Margaret Churchill have good parts, as the wife and daughter of the rough-neck millionaire, and all the other leading characters are well played. There is real humour in the plot, and some of the situations are first-class farce. A very instructive and amusing talkie which precedes the star picture shows how talking-films are made. Altogether an excellent programme.

CHINA MERCHANTS' S.N. CO.
PLIGHT OF FOREIGN EMPLOYEES.

OUTSPOKEN LETTER IN SHANGHAI DAILY.

The following letter, written under the nom-de-plume of "Kew," appeared in a recent issue of The North China Daily News:

In a speech made by Mr. T. C. Chao, the General Manager of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company, to the German Industrial Mission, on board the steamer Kiang An on May 1, and as reported in your columns of May 3, the following passages occur:—
"With the establishment of the National Government at Nanking in 1927, the plans laid down by our late leader Dr. Sun Yat Sen have been gradually put into practice."

"During my two years service" I have left no stone unturned to introduce various reform measures into the management of our company. Though we have achieved much progress in our endeavour, yet we are not at all satisfied with our success."

With regard to the implication of the words, "plans," reform measures," and the statement that Mr. Chao is "not at all satisfied with our success," the writer wonders whether Mr. Chao had in mind the following problem, which his modesty doubtless precluded his acquainting his foreign guests with:—

In December, 1924, there were, approximately, 150 foreign employees in the service of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company. Today, there are less than 30. The great majority of the 150 departed ranks, were—I use the term with an intimate knowledge of the circumstances and with a full significance of its implication—"hounded out" on some flimsy pretext or other and these were men who had, in numerous instances, given periods of faithful service up to, in some cases, a quarter of a century. Penalties and invaliding allowances that are due to many of them, have not been paid yet, despite representations extending over a period of three years, all manner of evasion and specious submissions having been advanced in an effort to delay and avoid settlement. That some of these "retired" ex-employees are in economic extremis does not, apparently, cause the Directorate of the Company undue concern. As for the few foreigners that still remain in the Company's service today, they are there solely because age and/or economic necessity prevents their obtaining alternative employment. They are harried and subjected to all manner of indignity, their salaries are months in arrears of payment and even when they do receive something on account of what is long overdue them as wages, part of it is taken from them, as witness the following letter dated as recently as January 20 of this year and which was addressed by the Company to foreign employees:—

"This is to inform you that by order of General Manager, all the staffs of this Company should make a subscription proportional to their wages to soothe the soldiers on firing front. The total amount of this subscription is $3,000, so you have to pay (the amount was here inserted which ranged from $48 to $100 according to salary received) on your account, which have to deduct from your salary of this month."

There was no question of the employee being permitted to donate the sum demanded; it was abstracted from his salary before the balance was handed to him.

Incidentally, the writer has yet to learn that Chinese employees of foreign firms are mulcted in a portion of their salaries to "soothe" foreign soldiers here in Shanghai. It would therefore be appreciated if Mr. T. C. Chao would kindly indicate through the courtesy of your columns, whether the foregoing constitutes part of "the plans" and "reform measures" which he referred to in his speech.

JAPAN'S GIGANTIC WRESTLERS.

SUM SEASON OPENS.

[UNITED PRESS.]

Tokyo, May 10.—Sumo, Japan's most ancient popular sport, returns to Tokyo to-morrow for a ten-day season, and despite the over-increasing popularity of baseball and other Western sports, officials of the Japan Wrestling Association expect the big Ryogoku amphitheatre to be packed during the entire season.

Sumo, which is traced back to "the Age of the Gods," is a peculiar type of wrestling in which gigantic men, weighing from 250 to 500 pounds, participate. It differs from Western types of wrestling in that a fall is not necessary, a contestant winning if, by sheer bulk, he is able to force his opponent's foot out of the ring.

National Interest.

There are two meetings a year in Tokyo, one in January and the other in May, and the year's champions are selected during these periods. During the remainder of the year the wrestlers rest or "barnstorm" in the provinces. Followers of sumo display intense interest during the Tokyo seasons, and there are always crowds around the bulletin boards in front of the newspaper offices where the results of the matches are posted. Frequent extras (gogai) are also issued by the papers.

Some observers, however, claim that sumo is slowly losing popularity, the scientific temper of the present generation of Japanese turning more toward athletic contests in which abnormal size and strength do not play such an important part.

Nevertheless the wrestlers are still the idols of the crowd, and nearly all of the important sumo have sponsors, wealthy and influential men who are to be seen in the dressing-rooms just before the bouts, discussing the relative prowess of the wrestlers, and often taking part in the important ceremony of dressing their men's hair, (each sumo wears a peculiar top-knot which is cut off when he retires from the ring).

The wrestlers are also immensely admired by the geisha, and are constantly being showered with gifts by these feminine admirers.

Wrestlers at Imperial Palace.

Increased popular interest is also expected to result from the fact that, for the first time in modern Japanese history, a group of wrestlers appeared before Emperor Hirohito in the Imperial Palace grounds recently. The event was the Emperor's birthday, and the matches were staged by the expressed desire of his Majesty.

Historians say the first known wrestling-match was staged in the days of Emperor Suinin (59 B.C.—70 A.D.) in which one of the contestants was fatally injured. All the ceremonies used in the modern ring date back from 500 to 1200 years. Thus the bow and arrow tied one of the four posts supporting the ornamental canopy over the ring are traced to Oda Nobunaga, a noted warrior of the sixteenth century who presented his favorite bow to a wrestler. During the modern season the grand champion daily observes the ceremony of entering the ring accompanied by two companions, one of whom carries a sword. This custom, some historians say, comes from the Yedo period when wrestlers were classed as equal to the samurai, the famous warriors of Japan's feudal days, and were allowed to wear swords.

Many other customs of the wrestling-ring are similar to the ancient Shinto rituals, and before each match salt is sprinkled on the ring in the Shinto rite of purification.

Mountains of Muscle.

Some idea of the immense size of the contestants may be gained from the fact that Dewagatake, one of the most famous of modern wrestlers, weighs more than 400 pounds and is 6 feet 6 inches tall, while Asashio, another champion, is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs well over 300 pounds. There are smaller sums of course, but in each case lack of height is usually made up for by immense girth. The case of the "Little Giant" is a good example. He is only 5 feet 6 inches tall, but weighs 270 pounds.

Sumo, however, is not based entirely on the size of the contestants, for there are 48 distinct "holds" in the game.

ST. PAUL'S INSTITUTION NEW CHAPEL.

IMPOSING CEREMONY BY CATHOLIC CLERGY
AT CAUSEWAY BAY.

DEDICATION AND THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

GRATITUDE OF THE SISTERS.

An impressive ceremony took place at Causeway Bay on Saturday when the handsome new Chapel of St. Paul's Institution (French Convent) was dedicated to Christ the King. The blessing of this Chapel was held in the morning and the thanksgiving service in the afternoon, the latter function being attended by a large congregation of Roman Catholics.

In addressing the gathering, the Rev. Father P. J. Joy, S.J., referred to the great work that had been done by St. Paul's Institution in converting a number of unimposing buildings, formerly the old Hong Kong Cotton Mills, to the beautiful edifices, among them the new Chapel, that now stood on the site.

Among the happy gathering of Roman Catholics were no fewer than six Bishops, who were Mgr. Rayssac, Vicar Apostolic of Swatow, Mgr. Valtorta, Vicar Apostolic of Hong Kong, Mgr. Deswaziere, Superior of the House of Nazareth, Pokfulam, Mgr. Ford, Prefect Apostolic of Kowloon, Mgr. Penicaud, Bishop Elect of Pakhoi, and Mgr. Seguin, Vicar Apostolic of Kweichow, who officiated at the ceremony.

The afternoon proceedings commenced with a procession, in which, among others, the Chinese girls of the Orphanage, the Children of Mary of the School, the Bishops and Clergy took part.

Music for the procession was rendered by the St. Louis Industrial School Band.

Previous to the Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, which was given by Mgr. Seguin, the Rev. Fr. P. J. Joy delivered an address, which, in part, was as follows:—

My dear Brethren,—We have come together this evening to join with the Sisters of St. Paul of Chartres in a solemn act of thanksgiving for the blessing that has been given this morning to this beautiful chapel dedicated to Christ the King.

The Chapel itself is but the completion of a great work which began in 1914 when the Sisters, finding the old French Convent at Wanchai too small for their growing needs, acquired the old Hong Kong Cotton Mills at Causeway Bay and set about converting them into the splendid group of institutions that you see here to-day.

Two names will be forever linked with that great project. One is the name of Mother Felicie, who guided the destinies of the Institution from 1881 at Wanchai and who watched over the development of this new venture at Causeway Bay until June, 1928, when death deprived the Sisters of her wonderful services.

The other name is that of Father Robert. Only his genius could have foreseen the possibility of converting the old Cotton Mills into what they are to-day, and it is due to his untiring zeal and self-sacrifice that from unpromising material we have to-day the Hospital, the Anglo-French School, the Lecture and Cinema Hall, the Orphanage, the Nursing Home, the Sisters' Convent, and Novitiate for Chinese Sisters.

A Happy Coincidence. As he was devising means for the building of the Chapel, he had to return to France in obedience to a call to even more important service at the headquarters of his Congregation. By a happy coincidence, he was passing through Hong Kong when Bishop Valtorta, laid the foundation of this Chapel. The Sisters would gladly see him here to-day, too, that they might once more express their thanks to him for his generous services.

But if the Fathers of the Missionary Strangers deprived the Sisters of Father Robert's assistance, they were far from withdrawing that generous help to the Sisters which they have always given. Through the kindness of the Superior of the Institution in Hong Kong, Father Viscondelet was enabled to take up the work left unfinished by Father Robert and his untiring zeal and energy was poured out in efforts to make this Chapel worthy of its noble setting.

Work of Devotion.

In Mr. Joseph V. Chanatong he found one whose devotion to the work of the Sisters he well knew. With the greatest disinterestedness Mr. Chanatong placed his great gifts at the services of the Sisters without the slightest remuneration. He it was that conceived the plan of this beautiful building and executed in collaboration with the Credit Foncier d'Extreme Orient. It will remain a monument to his ability and his generosity.

Other kind friends of the Sisters were Mr. William Gardner who has two daughters serving as Sisters in the Institution at Hong Kong. To Mr. Gardner the Sisters are indebted for the beautiful statue of the Sacred Heart.

To the children of Mary of the Anglo-French School they are indebted for the beautiful statue of Mary Immaculate.

On behalf of the Sisters, it is my duty to tell them all—and all the other friends (too numerous to be mentioned) who have helped in this work, how deeply grateful the Sisters are for their generous service and gifts. That God—who leaves unrewarded not even the cup of cold water given in His Name—may reward them abundantly, will be the Sisters' constant prayer.

Nor must we omit from this list of helpers those who carried out the work of construction—the contractors, Messrs. Tam Pui San & Co., Mr. A. Vannini, to whose credit is the execution of the marble and terrazzo work to Mr. William C. Blackett for his work in connection with the organ, to the General Electric Co., for the electric installation and fittings—all these have given the Sisters complete satisfaction and have earned their gratitude by the patience and thoroughness with which they carried out their work in every detail. On behalf of the Sisters, I wish to thank them.

We, who are gathered here to join with the Sisters in this act of thanksgiving, will pray that Christ the King may increase in them daily that spirit which has already been so fruitful and may increase daily the fruitfulness of this work begun and carried out to the honour of His Name.

MATRIMONIAL TANGLE.

TWO WIVES OF SAME MAN BOUND OVER BY COURT.

The two wives of a Chinese, who is at present in Shanghai, were again before Mr. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday, after their case had been referred to the S. C. A. by the Kowloon Magistrate on Thursday. The case was one in which Hui Pui-fong summoned Au Pui-chen for assault.

After reading the report from the S. C. A., his Worship asked defendant whether there were any ceremonies when she was married. The defendant replied that she was taken to the husband's house in a sedan chair, in accordance with the usual Chinese custom. All documents relating to her marriage were now in Canton.

The complainant told the Magistrate that she was married to her husband in St. Mary's Church and that she possessed a marriage certificate. At the time of the ceremony, she did not know that the husband already had a wife.

His Worship held that the husband was to blame for the complications that have arisen. He found both women over in bonds of $50 to keep the peace for six months, and fined the defendant $3 for cutting the complainant's hair with a cup.

When informed by various members of the Consular Body of the decision of the foreign ratepayers of the International Settlement to increase the number of Chinese seats on the Shanghai Municipal Council, General Chang Chun, Mayor of Greater Shanghai, is reported to have emphasised the importance of full co-operation between Chinese and foreigners, especially in the International Settlement. He was, therefore, gratified at the foreign ratepayers' decision. Reports will be sent to the Waichiao-pu and to the Diplomatic Corps.

ROUND THE COURTS.

THREE STOLEN BATTERIES.

Charges of stealing and, alternatively, of receiving three old batteries, the property of the Kowloon Motor Bus Company, were preferred against two Chinese, who appeared before Mr. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday.

Sub-Inspector Chester-Woods, prosecuting, said that the first accused concealed the batteries, which were taken out from the Company's premises, in a motor bus. An accomplice, the second accused, was to take the articles out from the bus when parked in Soy Street.

The second accused was actually engaged in this job when he was arrested.

Both men pleaded guilty and were fined $10 each, or 14 days' hard labour in default of payment.

AN INCORRIGIBLE YOUTH!

A Chinese youth, who had been caged on three previous occasions, again appeared before Mr. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday, when he was charged with stealing a purse containing 10 cents, and with failing to notify the Police of his change of address within 24 hours, as he was under Police surveillance.

Sub-Inspector Chester-Woods explained that the complainant was looking at the pictures on the wall of Mongkok Cinema when the defendant picked his pocket. The defendant's action was noticed by a friend of complainant some distance away.

His Worship passed sentences amounting to five months' hard labour on defendant, who pleaded guilty, on the two charges.

CAPT. A. HALL UNDER ARREST.

ALLEGED POSSESSION OF OPIUM.

On Saturday forenoon, officers of the Revenue Department boarded the s.s. Kashgar, shortly before her departure on her homeward voyage, and detained Mr. Arthur Hall, who had booked a passage to Singapore. It is alleged that 2,000 taels of prepared opium were found in three travelling trunks placed in the baggage room of the vessel.

Mr. Hall, it is understood, has been employed on local steamers.

When arrested, he described himself as a master mariner and gave his address as 27, Pilsen Street, Kowloon.

A charge of possession of the opium was later made against him, and bail of $300,000 was granted.

The arrested man remained in police custody during the week-end and will be brought before the Central Magistrate this morning.

ST. JOHN'S CATHEDRAL GREET'S GOVERNOR.

GOVERNOR AND LADY PEEL ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE.

SERMON PREACHED BY THE DEAN.

H.E. Sir William Peel, the newly-arrived Governor of the Colony, and Lady Peel attended divine service at St. John's Cathedral yesterday. The sermon was delivered by the Dean (the Very Rev. A. Swann), other clergy taking part in the service being the Rev. H. V. Koop, Rev. W. Walton Rogers, Rev. E. W. L. Martin, Rev. E. Evans and Rev. C. B. Shann.

His Excellency and Lady Peel were met at the entrance to the Cathedral by the Dean and the Secretary of the Trustees of the Church of England, and conducted to their place in the Nave.

While the congregation knelt and offered prayers for His Excellency and Lady Peel, that grace and strength may be vouchsafed to them during their period of office, the choir entered by the west door and the hymn "Glorious things of thee are spoken: Zion City of our God" was sung.

The hymn ended, the Dean moved to the chancel step and, speaking in the name of the Lord Bishop, the Clergy and People of the Diocese of Victoria, said:—Your Excellency, called by the grace of God and the will of our Sovereign Lord King George to the office and dignity of Governor of this Colony, we bid you welcome to this Cathedral, yours and ours.

May He who gave unto his disciples a vision of the city of God enlighten and guide your mind with the spirit of wisdom.

And may the blessing of the Father be upon this Colony through all the days of your authority for Him and his servant, George our King.

The congregation:—All which may He vouchsafe to grant whose Kingdom and dominion endure without end for ever and ever. Amen.

This service continued according to the order of Morning Prayer, the hymn "O God, our help in ages past" being sung at the close, followed by the National Anthem.

The Dean's Sermon.

The Dean took, as his text: "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled."—Matt. V. 6.

When our Lord Jesus Christ gave to the world the pattern prayer, He bade them pray for the coming of the Kingdom of God in earth as it is in Heaven. Day by day for 1600 years His disciples have given expression to their longing for the fulfilment of that prayer. It is the supreme hope of the world, and those who truly desire it and work for it are the greatest benefactors of the race.

Having by his life and teaching and manner of death revealed once and for all the nature of God, Christ called mankind to enter into a relationship with this God, a relationship which is described as the Kingdom of God or the Kingdom of Heaven.

Man's true life, his citizenship, is a heavenly one; it consists in the establishment and development of a Colony—a Colony of the Empire of Heaven. Heaven is to be regarded as the state in which there exists perfect harmony between the Supreme Ruler and his subjects, and human life is intended to be a local department of that state, where the reign of God is firmly established, where His will is gradually accepted as law, and where loyalty to Him is the predominant motive in all policy and all action, both individual and social.

We are in a position here to appreciate such a picture of the Kingdom of Heaven on earth, we know what a Colony means. And it is natural, at this time when the Colony of Hong Kong begins a new chapter in its history, that we should link our aspirations for its future onto the larger vision of that Colony of the Kingdom of Heaven which all human life is intended to become.

An Outpost of Empire.

Every department of our life here is closely knit with our motherland. Our Government is the agent of the King and his ministers. Our laws are in harmony with the justice which operates at home. We try to uphold in this corner of the world all that is best in the traditions of our land. We are dependent upon our Empire for many of our material necessities, and for the history and literature of the Mother Country. We seek refreshment and health by our periodic returns thither. Many of us have in that far-off land those whom we love. Most of us are only sojourners here for awhile. And above all our hearts are at home.

We know the privileges, the pains and the responsibilities of the subjects of a Colony. The idea of a Colony is twofold—dependence coupled with service. It draws its strength from its dependence and it must demonstrate its loyalty in service.

Now this is the idea of the Kingdom of Heaven upon earth. The true strength of human life springs from dependence upon God. He is the source of its laws of conduct. His is the righteousness which makes for human happiness. His alone is the spiritual strength in which men may go out to build in the world the Kingdom which is to be. Without dependence upon Him the strongest man is but a weakling, and a community which is blind to His will and fails to seek His guidance and enabling power is not on the way to becoming a part of the Kingdom of Heaven upon earth. Only those who depend upon God can serve him faithfully among their fellowmen.

Our citizenship is in Heaven. Those who desire to see God's Kingdom come, and especially those who rule in any sphere, will act as agents of the Eternal King. The guiding principles of their lives will be those which we may believe to exist where the will of God is supreme. They will uphold at all costs the traditions of the heavenly Kingdom. They will depend on Heaven for supplies of strength and guidance, and they will seek refreshment and health by regular withdrawal to the land of the King. They will remember that they are but sojourners in a world of time, and while their margins will be constantly spent in building the Kingdom of God on earth, their hearts will be over at home.

Citizens of God.

Our highest hope for this Colony of Hong Kong is that its citizens shall increasingly see themselves as to fashion its many-sided life that it may become a part of the City of God.

In the sayings which we call the Sermon on the Mount, Christ enumerates for us the characteristics of the citizens of the Kingdom of God. Having begun in the first those beauties by contrasting certain aspects of their character—detachment, capacity for pain, humility—with those which are common in society, as it organises apart from God, He proceeds to more positive traits. My text speaks of the first of these. "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled." Five times in the Sermon on the Mount Christ speaks of righteousness. Righteousness is to be the all-embracing characteristic of the Kingdom and its citizens, and He leaves no room for doubt that this righteousness is to be one with the righteousness of God. His whole life and teaching were devoted to defining and demonstrating divine and human righteousness. We see it in Him as justice and mercy, truth and purity, peace and love. His is the character of God and, therefore, it must belong to the citizens of his Kingdom.

But He says "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness." Everyone knows what appetite means. It is a strong craving. You cannot forget you are hungry or thirsty. Again and again in human life we see what is like hunger and thirst. "You see an appetite for place, a man desires some position and he bends all his energies to its attainment. Or men desire wealth and they set themselves to gain it by any means. Or an athlete or a crew are out to win some race, and everything else, for the time being at least, is subordinated to the success of their efforts. Behind these things there is a craving—a hunger and a thirst."

Kingdom of Heaven.

Such is the intensity of the desire for righteousness which is to possess the citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven. "Blessed are they," says Christ, "who hunger and thirst like this after the righteousness of God. Time after time Jesus Christ asserts that the Kingdom of Heaven is for those who violently desire it. The Kingdom of Heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force."

"The Kingdom of Heaven is likened unto a merchant man seeking goodly pearls, and having found one of great price, he hath sold all that he hath and buyeth it." "The Kingdom of Heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field, which a man found and hid, and in his joy he goeth and selleth all that he hath and buyeth that field."

In His own life, Christ is wholly uncompromising in His pursuit of righteousness. Nothing whatever will deflect Him from His path—unpopularity, poverty, persecution, the threat of death will not for a moment turn Him from it. To uphold the righteousness of God and man were to Him the supreme aim of life, and He is entitled to occupy the place in men's hearts and minds which He claims simply because He did so.

"Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled." Such a hunger and thirst as this is the way to satisfaction. It has been said that every desire is either focal or marginal in the mind. Desires which are merely marginal have little power, but those which are focal sway the whole of a man's personality and life. There is something which every man desires most of all, some passion which dominates his mind. The dominant desire of the citizen of the Kingdom of God is for righteousness. When Christ said they who hunger and thirst for righteousness shall be filled, He was stating a psychological truth, for that which we wholeheartedly desire we rarely fail to get, and when this desire is for something spiritual it never fails. Those who have a passion for righteousness enter the Kingdom of Heaven and are the builders of the City of God upon earth.

Society and the Individual.

But Christ's teaching was always to society, as well as to the individual. In fact His idea of the individual was always that of a perfect member of society. For this reason, when He says that those who hunger for righteousness shall be filled, He means that satisfaction will be most complete when men seek righteousness together. Later on in the Sermon on the Mount, after urging dependence upon God for the material necessities of life, He promises that those who seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness shall have no lack of these. He promises this not to the individual so much as to the community. When the first concern of human society shall be righteousness, the social ills which now result from self-seeking will vanish away. In other words, when humanity shall have learnt to act as a colony of the Kingdom of Heaven, the Kingdom of God will have come upon earth.

The early Church, we read, looked for a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness, and to-day many of us long for the extension of righteousness—in its fullest sense—in this Colony of ours. We pray and work for the coming of the Kingdom of Heaven here among us. We thank God for some signs of its growth. But there is great need for an increase of men and women who truly hunger and thirst after righteousness.

The pursuit of righteousness, however, must be only for righteousness' sake, it must be disinterested and it must be wholly genuine. "Take heed," says Christ, "that ye do not your righteousness before men to be seen of them." And again "Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no wise enter in to the Kingdom of Heaven."

Many of us who would build the Kingdom of Heaven are fearful towards the opinion of men; we allow ourselves to conform to public opinion, and we are content to think that what the majority believe and do must be right. There is no blessedness for such as these, and where they abound the Kingdom flags and languishes.

The Way of the Idealist.

The way of the idealist is never an easy one. In the world as it is, those who take the side of God must be prepared for hardships. In the middle ages there were many evil ramparts in Europe, and it is said that in the darkest days a high ecclesiastic was implored to take action to redress certain crying wrongs, but he was unequal to the occasion and replied by pointing to a Crucifix and saying, "Behold the face of a reformer." His words were true, but it is our Lord Himself, who tasted the cup of the reformer to the very dregs, who says to us that to do so is worth it. "Blessed are they who are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Those whose passion for righteousness leads them to seek it before all else may very likely have to drink something at least of the same cup as their Master, but it is they who have the honour and the supreme satisfaction of being co-workers with Him in the building of the City of God.

Ours is the great hope that Thy Kingdom shall come, and hast taught us to pray for its coming, make us ever ready to thank Thee for the signs of its dawning, and to pray and work for the perfect day when Thy will shall be done on earth as it is in Heaven.

LOCAL WEDDINGS.

WILLIAMS—COSSAR.

A pleasing ceremony took place at the Union Church, Kowloon, on Saturday when the Rev. J. Horace Johnstone, before a large gathering of friends, solemnised the marriage of Miss Nora Cossar, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Cossar, of Edinburgh, to Mr. Edgar Ledger Williams.

The bride, who carried a bouquet with a Victorian touch, was prettily gowned in a garment of shaded pink georgette, crinoline, and wore a lace picture hat. Miss K. Murphy was the bridesmaid and she made a lovely picture in her dress of Alice blue georgette.

Mrs. E. C. Murphy was the matron of honour, while the duties of "best man" were ably discharged by Mr. J. Hughes. The bride was given away by Mr. J. C. Anderson.

A reception was held at Empress Lodge later in the day.

The bride's travelling dress was of rainbow tinted chiffon, with black moire silk hat. The honeymoon is being spent at Repulse Bay.

LEE—PAU.

A pretty wedding took place at Union Church, Kennedy Road, on Saturday when Mr. Lee Pui Tong, B.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gock Cheuk, was married to Miss Pau Yuk King, the daughter of Mr. Pau Chung Yin. The Service was read by the Rev. Frank Short.

The bride, who was attended by Miss Rose Lee and Miss Pansy Abbas, bridesmaids, wore a beautiful dress of silver brocade, with white georgette, cut in petals, and was given away by her father.

The bride's mother attended in ceremonial attire, and the two pretty flower-girls were Miss Kwok Wai Chun and Tsai Po Yin. Mr. Mak Kai Hung was "best man," while the duties of groomsmen were performed by Mr. Lee Cheuk Kuen.

Following the ceremony at the Church, a reception was held at Mr. Lee Gock Cheuk's residence, 41, Caine Road, where many friends called during the day to wish happiness to the newly-married couple.

Over 500 guests were present when Mr. Lee, who is a graduate of last year at the Hong Kong University, gave a dinner on Saturday evening at the Tung Yat Restaurant, West Point.

MR. O'SULLIVAN MISSING.

SEARCH BEING MADE BY THE POLICE.

Much concern is being felt by relatives and friends at the disappearance of Mr. T. F. O'Sullivan, a former bailiff of the Supreme Court. He was invalided out of the service some years ago, and since then has been under medical attention several times. It is feared that on this occasion he may have lost his memory.

Police assistance has been sought in tracing the missing man, and there had been anxious inquiries about him up to a late hour last night, when the search had not yielded any result.

Mr. O'Sullivan left his home last Thursday, and he was last seen in the Public Gardens at about 6.30 p.m. that day. He was dressed in a white jacket and wore a pair of brown shoes. He also wore a pair of shaded spectacles.

At the time of going to press, we learn that Mr. O'Sullivan, accompanied by his little daughter, visited his son, who is a boarder at St. Joseph's College, on Thursday afternoon. He then went to the Public Gardens, where the girl was interested in the aviary, while her father stood by. Some little time later the girl found her father had disappeared, and a frantic search was made. Some European ladies found the girl weeping, and conducted her home. Following this a report was made to the police, and a thorough search was made in the Gardens, until late that night.

KOWLOON LANDSLIDE.

EARTH COOLIE KILLED ON SATURDAY.

The heavy rain during last week took its toll on Saturday, when a coolie was buried in a landslide which occurred in Prince Edward Road, near Kowloon Tong. Other coolies on the scene promptly got to work by clearing the earth, but they did not succeed in getting the man alive.

A message was sent to the Mong Kok Police Station as soon as the incident occurred at about 6 p.m., and in consequence two fire appliances and an ambulance were despatched. The body of the coolie was removed to the Kowloon Mortuary.

HAPPY FUNCTION AT CLUB LUSITANO.

MUTUAL HELP SOCIETY ANNIVERSARY.

CONSTRUCTIVE ACTIVITIES REVIEWED IN SPEECH.

The Associação Portuguesa de Socorros Mutuos (Portuguese Mutual Help Society) celebrated its 15th anniversary at the Club Lusitano on Saturday. This Society was founded on October 21, 1913, and was incorporated on May 10, 1915. Although the collection of monthly quotas commenced on June 12, 1915, the third anniversary of the foundation of the Society was celebrated on October 21, 1916, by an "At Home" in the old Club Lusitano.

The Associação Portuguesa de Socorros Mutuos is a society for "mutual help composed of persons of Portuguese nationality, parentage or descent." It is a members' society and not a charitable institution.

Union and Work as Motto.

The Society attracted sympathetic support from well-known persons in Macao, among whom may be mentioned the late Bishop Don Joao Paulino d'Azevedo e Castro, the Chief Justice Dr. Americo de Sousa and until lately Senhor Ferreira de Rocha, the Deputy for Macao.

In 1917 the founders had the satisfaction of receiving a substantial subsidy from the Macao Government for the establishment of Portuguese schools in Hong Kong. It was decreed by President Senhor Bernardino Machado through the good offices of the then Governor Senhor Carlos da Mata.

In reviewing the activities of the Society on Saturday, the President of the Association, Mr. V. S. Soares, said that no less a sum than $51,530 had been spent in giving relief to members and their dependents during the last 14 years. A reference to the tabulated account would show that during the same period $29,800 had been taken out to provide monthly maintenance for unemployed members, $12,470 for tuition in the Hong Kong University, and another $4,600 for the same purpose provided for from the fund of Mrs. Soares. An amount of $2,874 was expended for tuition in the Portuguese School, and other school and miscellaneous items absorbed $1,600.

Referring to sums expended for maintenance provided to unemployed members, Mr. Soares quoted an instance where a member actually received $240 during his period of unemployment, whereas his total monthly subscriptions amounted only to $82.50. The speaker hoped that the case cited would convince those who were not already members that the $1.50 monthly contribution would bring relief at any time should they happen to be rendered jobless.

Laudable Aims.

The aims of the Society, continued the speaker, were wholly laudable in nature, and it was regrettable that from the comparatively large Portuguese community only 370 members, including members of Macao, Canton and Shanghai, had enlisted. There were comparatively few, especially in Hong Kong, who could say that they were unable to pay the monthly subscription of $1.50, yet there were many in this Colony, who not only stayed away from the Society but indulged in criticizing the imperfections of those who worked for the good of the community.

Mr. Leo d'Almada, Jr., also addressed the gathering and urged all the younger members of the community to enlist. He commented on the assistance that the Society could render them in time of need, and remarked that the subscription of $1.50 was exceedingly small, and that it did not represent anything more than money spent on cigarettes by men, or a box of face powder by women.

The reception was attended by a large number of members of the Portuguese community, and a pleasing programme of musical selections was rendered by the Lyric Orchestra.

LOCAL BANK'S BIG LOSS.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST A CLERK.

According to a police report, a clerk employed by the Bank of China is alleged to have absconded with funds amounting to $24,834. The report was made to the police on Saturday by a representative of the Bank, who supplied the information that the suspected man has been missing from his work since May 1.

COLOUR SCHEMES

FURNISHING

The most pleasing Characteristic of a home is its ability to inspire mental, as well as Physical, repose. This can never be produced by a multi-coloured fabric on which the eye cannot rest reposefully. Only a self-coloured material can achieve the harmony of colour and dignity of line so necessary to our highly civilized mentalities.

Self coloured fabrics for window draperies and other furnishings will always give to the room an air of dignity and refinement.

Colour, of course we must have! and the colour of draperies should be selected according to the aspect of the room, and the uses to which the room is put.

EXPORTING MADE EASY.

RECENT cables have referred to important changes in Canada's fiscal policy, and to alarm expressed on the other side of the frontier at the alleged threat to Congress in its handling of American tariff questions. It is admitted that Canadian policy is directed toward encouraging trade with Great Britain and restricting imports from the United States, and no sensible legislator in Washington can pretend that such a policy is other than natural. The preference which is being extended by Canada in favour of British goods is not an unfriendly act against the United States, any more than the imposition of heavy duties upon imports into American territory can be regarded as an unfriendly act. At the same time, the Democratic critics of the Government in Washington who assert that high American tariffs inevitably lead to retaliatory measures by other countries are merely expounding the obvious and explaining the self-evident. Senator CATT, who prophesies that, when the new American tariff goes into force, other nations will retaliate, is in no danger of being denounced as a false prophet.

Canada's position in international trade is much more important than many people realise. The Dominion stands fifth in exports and imports among the countries of the world; before the war Canada occupied tenth place. The four nations which take priority of the Dominion in the matter of international trade are Great Britain, the United States, Germany, and France. It is a remarkable achievement for such a young community, and appears the more commendable when the fact is taken into consideration that there has been a marked increase in the export of fully or partially manufactured goods. Canada is no longer a seller of primary products only. In 1928 the Dominion led the world as a producer of newsprint with an output of 4,762 million pounds, the American production coming next with 2,830 millions. About 4,337 million dollars is invested in various industries in Canada, and of this total some 3,500 millions is invested in forty industries. Much of this manufacturing activity is concentrated upon meeting the domestic demand, but there are many lines which are also exported. Motorcars and trucks, clothing, electrical goods, chemical products, sewing-machines, photographic film, rubber goods—these are a few of the exports from Canada in addition to fresh and preserved foodstuffs.

The Canadian Government is extremely anxious to develop the country's export trade, and to this end about thirty years ago adopted the system of a Trade Commissioner Service. From Mr. PAUL SYKES, who is the Canadian Government Trade Commissioner in Hong Kong, we have received a copy of the Canadian Trade Index for 1930 in which some interesting details are given of the manner in which the Dominion authorities encourage Canadian merchants to engage in export business. Exporters have at their free disposal a commercial intelligence service which covers the whole world—though obviously that coverage must vary very much in efficiency. For instance, there are two Trade Commissioners in the West Indies, and one whose activities are supposed to cover territory which includes Germany, Austria, Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, and Russia! We imagine this gentleman has little spare time at his disposal to visit Czechoslovakia, which is also included in his field of operations. However, there are to-day thirty-one Canadian Trade Commissioner offices established in various parts of the world whose duty it is to supply information to Ottawa which will assist exporters to enter foreign markets. Any firm or individual in Canada has this commercial intelligence service at disposal free of charge, and any foreign firm looking to Canada as a source of supply may expect precisely similar assistance in making business connections.

The Canadian Trade Index contains, in addition to an exhaustive list of merchants and manufacturers in the Dominion, some useful information as to the manner in which export business is financed. To those who have experience of international commerce, there is probably nothing to be learned from these interesting chapters, but to the merchant who, for the first time, is contemplating doing business overseas, the information here placed at his disposal is invaluable. He is told all he needs to know about credits, discounts, and exchange rates, and in connection with this latter topic it is interesting to note that at one time Canadian exporters used invariably to quote in American dollars, for the reason that the importer taking up the draft got a more favourable rate for American exchange than Canadian. This practice is not so general as it used to be, but is still largely followed, partly owing to the fact that in some countries American exchange rates are always known and quoted, while Canadian are not. Full details are also given as to the procedure to be followed in shipping Canadian merchandise to various countries, including the filling-up of Consular invoices, and detailed explanation is given of the various tariff preferences, exemptions, and drawbacks. In short, the Canadian Trade Index gives the merchant with no experience of foreign trade all the information he really needs to meet the wishes of his overseas client and the requirements of the local authorities. The only thing wanting is the name and address of a consignee, and even this rather vital requirement, it is assumed, may be met by applying to the Commercial Intelligence Office in Ottawa. Thus is exporting made easy for Canadian firms who, lacking knowledge and experience of business with overseas buyers, are wishful to exploit the possibilities of foreign markets.

FROM FO'C'SLE TO FAME.

Among the many members of the King's Household is one humble individual known as the Post Laureate. His stipend is about two pounds a week, and as a Court official he was expected to produce—as and when required—praises of praise or doleful dirges appropriate to the State occasion which had to be versified. Abolition of this curious office has been advocated many times, usually on the ground that no really worthy successor could be found to take the place of the genius whose death had been removed. When TENNYSON died it was thought there was nobody fit to take up his mantle and lyre, but a gentleman named ALFRED AUSTIN was produced from somewhere just in time. Otherwise the alternatives were the appointment of WILLIAM MORRIS or SWINBURNE, or the complete disappearance of an ancient national institution. As these two poets were unabashed Bolsheviks long before Bolshevism was thought of, it was obvious their chances of being appointed to the post of Post Laureate were very small, and it came about that the then unknown and now almost forgotten ALFRED AUSTIN came to be chosen the Laureateship. After him came ROBERT BRIDGES, a man better known than AUSTIN, but whose ideas about poetry were as unorthodox as those of WAGNER about melody.

And now, in place of one who laboriously composed what was termed poetry on a strictly mathematical and impersonal basis, comes one whom the English-speaking world recognises not as a scientist in the handling of words but as a singer—a worthy successor to Southey. None but a Labour Government would have selected JOHN MASFIELD for the post of Post Laureate. Any other Ministry would have searched high and low for another meticulously melancholy and mechanically-minded word-builder whose flights of fancy could be expressed just as movingly in algebraic signs as in his mother tongue. JOHN MASFIELD is a poet of the people; he can write convincingly in prose and in verse—because he writes of what he himself knows. Forty years ago he ran away to sea, and his experiences of life before the mast are vividly recalled in his songs and stories of sea-life. He can write stirring or sentimentally, in words that can be understood without doubt or difficulty, and in rhythms that run smoothly and sweetly instead of dashing themselves into pieces on a breakwater of queer accents, archaic inflections, and odd pronunciations which none but pedants could appreciate. JOHN MASFIELD's appointment as Post Laureate should result in his books suddenly becoming as popular as those of that other literary genius, EDGAR WALLACE. Those who do not know his work will want to, now that he is crowned with laurels. Sailors certainly will be pleased to hear of MASFIELD's appointment, for he is one of the few who can write about the sea without risk of being ridiculous, and in view of the King's known attachment to ships and seamen, the honour which has now come to the one-time sailor-boy is most appropriate.

APOLOGY.

To DETECTIVE NG FOOK, Hong Kong Police.

In our issue of 1st April, 1930, there appeared an article headed "Prison Sentence for Theft of Iron Bars," in which it was stated that Ng Fook, who is a member of the Detective Force of the Hong Kong Police, was on the previous day sentenced to 6 months' imprisonment for theft. This statement was inaccurate in every particular, and appeared as a result of a mistake made on the part of one of our Junior Reporters. On the 16th day of April writs were issued against us on behalf of Ng Fook for damages for libel, the claim being based on the above article. We immediately offered to make reparation on our part, and have now agreed to pay a substantial sum to Ng Fook by way of damages, to give him an indemnity for costs, and also to publish this Apology, on which he has agreed to settle the two actions. We sincerely regret that our paper should have made such a mistake, and we tender to Ng Fook our sincerest regret, and our trust that this apology will get into the hands of all his friends or acquaintances who may have seen the unfortunate article.

HONG KONG'S RIVAL.FREE PORT IN KWANGTUNG*SIXTY-YEAR CHARTER GRANTED.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, May 10.

A free port to be known as Chung Shan is shortly to be opened in South China at Tang Chia Huan, a village on the coast southward of Chung Shan, known as the Sun Yat Sen model district, in Kwangtung Province.

According to the decision reached at a recent meeting of the State Council, the free port will be granted a charter for a period of sixty years.

Mr. Sun Fo, Minister of Railways, states that Tang Chia Huan is already connected by road with Macao and Canton, and the harbour has sufficient depth of water to enable accommodation to be provided for ocean-going steamers, which fact will facilitate the development of the port into a first-class harbour.

Japanese Comment.

SHANGHAI, May 10.

Japanese comment upon the free port scheme in Kwangtung suggests that the execution of the plan will deflect the trade now passing through Hong Kong to the Chinese port.

Further Details of Scheme.

Mr. Wong Kue Shu, Magistrate of the Chung Shan model district, who went to Shanghai a fortnight ago to attend the special conference called by Mr. Tong Shao Yi, President of Executive Administrative Committee of the district, has completed his mission and returned to Canton.

In an interview, appearing in the Canton Gazette, Mr. Wong said that the conference, which was conducted at the residence of Mr. Tong in Shanghai, took place on the 26th and 27th ult.

Amongst the numerous important resolutions passed at the conference, the magistrate mentioned the following:

1. To open up Tong Ka Wan into a free commercial port, which will be named, the "Chung Shan Port."
2. To re-demarcate the boundaries of the various sections of the district and renounce them.
3. To survey the boundary of the Chung Shan port.
4. To remove the seat of administration from Shekhi to Tong Ka Wan.
5. To reform the affairs of the police force in the district, and to adopt a standard scale for collecting police-taxes.
6. To draw up regulations governing the custody of all Government properties in the districts.
7. To appoint a Board of Directors for the new Chung Shan Bank.
8. To adopt an official emblem for the district, and
9. To construct a large public garden in commemoration of the late Party Leader, Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

Nanking Officials Coming South.

Mr. Wong also stated that Mr. Lin Sen, Member of the Central Executive Committee, and Mr. Tong Shao Yi, President of the Executive Administrative Committee of the model district, are proposing to take a trip to Canton before the end of the month.

Mr. Lin, who has been absent since he went to the capital to take up his present high official position, two years ago, is planning to pay a visit to Canton where he may visit his many friends and relatives.

It is also said that Mr. Sun Fo, Minister of Railways, may also travel south with Messrs. Lin and Tong.

About thirty-five villages in the Jamnagar, Taluka and Broach districts have decided not to pay land revenue, while in the remaining villages in Taluka land tax has either already been paid or collection has been suspended. It will be recalled that Gandhi in 1921-22 successfully led a no tax campaign in the Kaira district.

This was arranged by Gandhi. Naidu has left for Bombay to arrange to bring a large number of volunteers from there to Dharsana. It is understood that the authorities have wire-fenced the salt works at Dharsana.

Origin of Sholapur Riots.

POONA, May 6.

It is now learnt that the Sholapur riots originated on May 7 when millworkers demonstrated outside two of the mills which refused to observe the hartal which had been called. The police dispersed the demonstrators who, however, re-formed their ranks and proceeded to burn down liquor shops.

Peace was restored by nightfall, but the arrival of Congress volunteers yesterday morning, with the object of burning the toddy palm trees, attracted the disgruntled millhands who then stoned the District Magistrate, Mr. Knight, and Police Superintendent, Playfair, who, with two European sergeants and a few armed sepoy, were touring the city to persuade the volunteers to abandon the plan of burning down the trees.

Another Constable Burned Alive.

Mr. Knight and Superintendent Playfair were both wounded. They ordered a warning volley to be fired, whereupon a shrieking gesticulating mob of thirty thousand people surrounded the party and cut off their retreat until a party of police recklessly broke through. Demoniacal fury then descended upon the rioters, who seized a head constable and burnt him alive. They murdered two other policemen and then marched to the Government buildings, setting fire to police stations and the Session Court on the way there.

The mob was dispersed upon the arrival of Police reinforcements. (Continued at foot of next column).

AMERICA & LONDON NAVAL TREATY.MR. BRITTEN STILL SEEKS PARITY WITH BRITAIN.*NAVAL BILL FOR $1,000,000,000 INTRODUCED TO SENATE.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

WASHINGTON, May 10.

In advocating a conservative naval construction programme in opposition to the Bill published yesterday night by Mr. Britten, Chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee to the House of Representatives, Mr. French, Chairman of the Appropriations Sub-Committee which drafts the Annual Naval Supply Bill, said that the United States would be in a stronger position in 1933 if they did not build up to the limits of the London Treaty, which, he declared, would cost almost $1,000,000,000.

Mr. French contended that by not building to the authorized limits the United States could more readily agree at the next conference to a further reduction which would be effective without the scrapping of new ships, and on the contrary, if the categories were not filled up to the limits, the nation would be able to take advantage of contemporaneous improvement in designs or methods of warfare. Mr. Britten, however, was not moved by Mr. French's plea and introduced his Bill providing for the expenditure of $936,993,000 on the construction of warships which he says are necessary to establish American parity with Britain.

SIGNOR GRANDI ON NAVAL PARITY.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

STATEMENT IN CHAMBER.

ROME, May 9.

For two hours Signor Grandi, chief Italian delegate to the London Naval Conference, surveyed the results of the Conference in the Chamber. The most striking part of his speech dealt with parity with France. He declared that naval parity was a principle of moral international right and was something new which arose from the mutual confidence among the nations.

Signor Grandi added that if Italy measured her armaments in accordance with her needs, parity would not be sufficient, but he was fairly optimistic as regards the future.

He said that Franco-Italian co-operation was essential if Europe was to recover its prosperity.

A representative of the Lena Goldfields in a statement asserting that the company did not regard the Concession, cancelled submitted that neither party was entitled to cancel it and that the only authority empowered to do so was the Court of Arbitration.

The Court found that the Concession Agreement was still operative and the jurisdiction of the Court was consequently unimpaired. It also decided that future sittings should be public. The next sitting will be held on June 28.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT BROOKLANDS.TWO PEOPLE KILLED TWENTY-FIVE INJURED.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, May 9.

Two people were killed and several seriously injured at Brooklands today during the last hour of the Junior Car Club's double twelve hour race.

A Talbot car, doing eighty miles an hour, skidded and was charged by a following Talbot. The first machine was driven through an iron fence and it then turned turtle among the spectators, one of whom was killed.

The driver of the first Talbot was seriously injured and his mechanic killed. The occupants of the second car were pinned underneath but were not hurt.

Warning to Drivers and Mechanics.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, May 10.

The double twelve hours race at Brooklands (so-called because the local residents insisted that the track was not to be used at night, otherwise the race would be a twenty-four hours continuous one) was resumed this morning in an atmosphere of gloom after drivers had agreed that owing to the international importance of the race it was impossible to abandon the event.

The marshal assembled the drivers and mechanics and warned them to look out when overtaking cars, and it is hoped this will prevent a repetition of yesterday's tragedy.

There was an outcry after Bernard Heatt, who was competing in the motor-cycle world's speed record, was killed at Brooklands, on May 3 as the result of his machine skidding on the wet track, critics declaring that the race should have been abandoned during the rain. Yesterday's event was run on a treacherous course amid squalls of wind and rain and the track was wet this morning when the race was resumed after a night of heavy rain. Eleven of the twenty-five people who were injured yesterday are still in hospital including a woman who is seriously injured. People behind the railings on seeing the crash turned to flee but many had no time to move before the car crashed into them amid a whirl of flying metal, concrete and twisted railings.

Reinforcements of militia were summoned to deal with the mob who had already wrecked three blocks in the negro quarter.

NEW POET LAUREATE APPOINTED.A HAPPY CHOICE.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, May 10.

The King has appointed Mr. John Masefield to be Poet Laureate in succession to the late Dr. Robert Bridges.

The appointment has given great pleasure in literary circles and especially among Mr. Masefield's fellow poets. The new Laureate, who is fifty-five, has written several notable novels as well as long narrative poems which display intense love of sea and of English country-side.

He was born in the west of England and as a youth ran away to sea where he served before the mast for several years gaining experiences which are reflected in his works. He wrote for the Manchester Guardian notably short poems including the well-known "Sea Fever" and then a series of long poems of unconventional style some of which attracted much attention. His most recent book was "The Hawkmoths" published last year which is the story of the hunting shires. Mr. Masefield lives at Boxhill Oxford and was a neighbour and close friend of his predecessor, Dr. Bridges. He is of an extremely shy temperament and is glad that the Laureateship does not these days involve writing to order.

Complete Disorder on Nanking Front.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEKING, May 10.

Military headquarters issued the following communique this afternoon: "Nanking forces taking advantage of the partial concentration of the Second and Third Army groups, which are composed of Yen Hsi Shan's and Feng Yu Hsiang's picked troops each numbering 100,000, came out of their positions three days ago and advanced westward under Chiang Kai Shek's orders. Here they were surprised by enemy troops who were covering the concentration composed of the commands under Sun Tien Ying and Wan Hsuan Tsai. One Nanking division was annihilated leaving the ground covered with dead, complete disorder now reigns on the Nanking front and quantities of prisoners are being brought in. The vanguards of the Second and Third Army groups came into action yesterday. The original plan was that as soon as concentration was completed two covering forces would open up and go to the flanks but the situation has developed so rapidly that advantage is being exploited and a general advance is occurring without redistribution."

POLICEMEN'S BRUSH WITH BANDITS.DARING ATTACK ON A STATION.*SEVERAL KILLED DURING BRISK FIGHTING.

A daring attack is reported to have been made by bandits on a police station in Naimhoi district, the marauders suffering a setback after brisk fighting.

The head of the No. 2 Police Station in Siulam Village recently received a threatening letter from the notorious gang under Chan Kuen, demanding $8,000. The robbers declared in the letter that should their request be refused, they would have him seized in order to make him their secretary, as he was a man of letters. The threat was disregarded, with the result that the police station was attacked.

The robbers, numbering over 100, suddenly made their appearance in the small hours of Friday last and attacked the police station. The handful of police put up a stiff fight, and a severe encounter ensued. Shortly afterwards, the village militia came to the rescue and the outlaws fled on their arrival. In consequence of the fighting, one policeman was killed and four rifles were captured by the marauders, of whom several were killed and one taken prisoner.

BRIGANDS THREATEN RAILWAYS.ARMoured CARS PATROL LINES.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, May 11.

Owing to the rampage of brigandage and the threatening rumours of robbery on a big scale, the authorities of the Canton-Hankow, Canton-Samsui and the Canton-Kowloon Railway are adopting unusual precautionary measures to insure safety in travelling. Not only is the number of guards for these permanent ways increased, but armoured cars have also been added to the patrol. Each train is now unusually well protected.

These precautions have been adopted in consequence of recent reports that large bands of bandits have appeared in the vicinity of Kwantin station on the Canton-Hankow Railway. Their movements are very baffling, and it appears that they are focussing their attention on train robbery. Mr. Chen In, managing director of the Railway, has requested the Canton Military Headquarters to send a detachment of troops to Kwantin to round up the outlaws and insure the safety of travelling there.

On the Canton-Kowloon Railway a gang of outlaws visited during the early part of last week the workmen's quarters at Katsan station, not very far from Canton, and took everything of value. They all made good their escape. Hordes of brigands varying from a hundred to a thousand in number are reported to be lurking in these places, and the authorities of the Canton-Kowloon Railway are leaving nothing to chance in their protection of the trains.

[UNITED PRESS.]

Washington, May 5.—The sale of bottles intended for liquor, or of other equipment offered in a manner designed to attract purchase by those intending to use such equipment for unlawful purposes in such connection, violates the national prohibition law according to a decision handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court today.

The decision said that the "manufacture" of liquor includes sale of utensils for use in such manufacture, by legal definition. Heretofore it had been a common practice for flasks, stills and other paraphernalia to be freely offered for sale and advertised in newspapers and magazines.

Interpreting to-day's decision Government officials said that the decision would permit prohibition enforcement operatives to close stores which had been selling barrels, coppers, filters, gages and various other home brewing devices. It is presumed that the decision will be chiefly invoked in connection with the large sellers of such equipment, although it is pointed out that some of the most respectable and high-priced establishments, including jewellery stores, will feel some of the effects of the decision in connection with their sale of personal equipment such as silver flasks, cocktail shakers and sets and similar articles.

LEAGUE TENNIS SEASON OPENED.

TWELVE MATCHES DECIDED OVER WEEK-END.

CHINESE AND INDIANS START WELL.

In spite of the repeated attempts of Jupiter Pluvius to spoil everything on Saturday afternoon, the full programme of tennis matches, with the exception of the Kowloon-M.B.K. fixture, which was postponed some days ago, was carried off without a hitch.

The Indian Recreation Club started their league season well, and brought off victories in all three divisions. Last year's champions, the Hong Kong Cricket Club, suffered their first reverse at the hands of the Chinese Recreation Club, who, like the Indians, won all their matches.

Ground conditions left much to be desired, but the matches were played with such enthusiasm that the season promises to be a most successful one.

EASTERN NEWS IN BRIEF.

PARS FROM EVERYWHERE.

According to a statement made by the Peking Commissioner of Education, there are at present 287,500 male and 358,400 female illiterates in the former capital.

The Bureau of Public Safety at Canton has banned the following Chinese vernacular papers:—The Nam Wah and Pung Pao of Hong Kong, and the Man Kwok of Nanning, Kwangsi.

Dr. Keiun Maeda, former President of the Toyo University, died at his residence at Nishikata-machi, Hongo, Tokyo, on April 29, at the age of 73. The last rites were held at the Tsukiji Honganji Temple on May 3.

The National Government has telegraphed to the Canton authorities, forbidding them to employ former subordinate officers of Gen. Chen Chung Ming, one-time Governor of that province, who revolted against Dr. Sun when he was in Canton.

Sir P. C. Ray, who arrived at Madras on March 14 en route to Bangalore, in the course of an interview, compared Mr. Gandhi's historic march with the exodus of the Israelites under Moses. The seer would not turn his back until he had reached the promised land, he added.

As the result of mediation by the Woosung Chamber of Commerce, the tax on small cargo boats entering Woosung port has been reduced by 30 per cent. The original levies were $2.40 for vessels loading miscellaneous cargo, and $3 for those engaged in the transportation of pigs. Taxation on the bigger fishing boats, hitherto $3 for each entry into the port, has been amended to monthly rates varying from $5 to $7, according to the size of the vessel.

Petitions, numbering 10,000, for the enfranchisement of women, local as well as national, from all over the country were unanimously accepted for consideration by the Petitions Committee of the House of Representatives which held its first session in Tokyo on April 30. When these petitions were explained as a whole by Mr. Giju Yamamasa (Minseito), none of the members, either of the Minseito or of the Seiyukai, expressed any opposition to accepting them for consideration.

Mr. Mo Te Hui, the Chinese representative who will conduct negotiations with Soviet Russia for the settlement of various pending questions, left Harbin for Moscow at 10.30 on May 1 with 18 members of the Chinese delegation. In view of the fact that China still sticks to the policy of purchasing the Chinese Eastern Railway in five years and refuses to touch on other questions, while Soviet Russia wants to conduct negotiations on various matters, it is believed that smooth progress of the negotiations cannot be expected.

H.E. the Governor, Sir Cecil Clementi, paid his first visit to Malacca on May 4, and was accorded a memorable reception from all communities. The opportunity was taken to emphasise the need of the town and port, and His Excellency received a deputation which made important suggestions for the improvement of the harbour facilities. These included the provision of a chueway and a wharf for big steamers. In the course of a speech Sir Cecil Clementi said:—"I could not help being impressed this morning by the fact that my yacht anchored a very long way off Malacca." He added that if ocean-going steamers could be brought to Malacca no one would be better pleased than himself.

Historic Japanese Bell.

An historic bell belonging to the Shingawaji Temple of Tokyo which more than half a century ago was taken to Vienna for exhibition purposes and left in Europe, was returned to Japan on April 20. In 1871 the bell was exhibited at a World Exposition in Vienna and then was lost sight of until recognised by a Japanese who was attending the Conference at Geneva, who saw it at the entrance of a museum there. He reported it to the Abbot of Shingawaji Temple, who immediately negotiated for its return, sending a stone lantern to take its place at the museum. The bell had been especially cast in memory of the Tokugawa Shogun Iyemasa and is about 5 feet high and 4 feet wide. A special meeting to celebrate its return will be held at Hibiya Park, attended by many notables, including Fleet Admiral Count Togo who will be the first person to ring the returned bell.
